

CASE STUDY: Unhoused

Andy is in his second semester, and while he did very well in the first semester, he recently lost his housing and is struggling with finding the space for his schoolwork. When Andy isn't couch surfing, he sleeps in his car. While he is still passing his classes this semester, his attendance and grades have dropped significantly. There have been some complaints from students to the instructor about Andy's hygiene. A student shared, "Listen, I don't want to get Andy in trouble or anything, but something's gotta change. He's wearing the same clothes every time I see him, and the smell is keeping me from focusing in class."

On an unseasonably cold night, he hides in the library until it closes and then spends the night on one of the couches. He is found in the morning by facility staff.
